Lyme disease and co-infections. By Savely Yurkovsky, MD.

General program outline

- I. Morbid factors of high meaning in the etiology of autism. Commonalities between morbid factors which cause autism and numerous other brain disorders and diseases. ADHD, ADD, LD, Alzheimer's, anxiety, depression, memory-, concentration and sleep problems, addictions, OCD, panic attacks, multiple sclerosis, Parkinson's and other.
 - The only diagnostic test capable of detection of causative factors – bioresonance testing – its advantages and common mistakes
 - Brief overview of limitations of prevailing treatments of autism
 - DAN
 - Yasko
 - Special diets
 - Homotoxicology/Complex homeopathy
 - Sequential homeopathy
 - Classical homeopathy. And its potential to be successfully integrated following or along with FCT where the latter is the only therapeutic system that, besides classical homeopathy, follows and produces Hering's Law of Cure. This law is a hallmark of sound healing.
 - Emphasizing one of the major factors in chronic disease and blocks to cure – EMF (electromagnetic fields) – and their deadly effect on the human brain and body.

- Why the primary causative factors of illness cannot be properly or at all detected by bio-medical approaches to autism, Lyme disease and co-infections or any chronic disease. Why all of these and other approaches are doomed to failure.
- Novel FCT homeopathic approach in the treatment of autism and all brain disorders based on vast body of integrated knowledge from conventional medicine and other pertinent sciences
- Understanding full clinical implications of and strategy to address a biological phenomenon of bioremediation long uncovered in human diseases through FCT.
- The deadly implications of bioremediation in the treatment of autism, Lyme with co-infections and all chronic diseases. Its high potential for iatrogenicity and for interaction with EMF. Clinical examples of severely damaged children and adults on bio-medical and other pharmaceutical treatments, alternative and conventional.
- High predictability of the outcome of therapeutic intervention as the necessary standard of scientific soundness of therapeutic system.
- Importance of parents and patients cooperation in the treatment process
- Key notes of several important classical homeopathic remedies which might be of use, in some children and adults with autism and ADHD.
- Presentation and testing in person of the recovered children from autism, ADHD and those who have made substantial progress from severe forms of these illnesses and neurological diseases.

By Savely Yurkovsky, MD and FCT practitioner, doctor and teacher of oriental medicine, Ken Andes, L.Ac. who combines just one point acupuncture method with a simplified version of FCT. He was not able to attain some of these and other dramatic results in chronic diseases without the addition of FCT.

One of the unsolicited testimonies received about a child cured from autism via FCT:

"I wouldn't recommend DAN to any parent. My son followed DAN for 7 years, but finally I stopped. I said to myself, 'I cannot get all these supplements into him... and it doesn't feel right.' In the end, the only way to do it was at the clinic where they had to pin him down and force him to take them. The people behind DAN are good people, but they are male so-called experts with theories, and not parents, and they don't really understand.

"With FCT everything is different. It's about getting to the level of cause instead of just the effects. And not only is there no problem giving the remedies to my son, in fact he looks forward to them and now he often does it himself. And the test is no problem - he just lies back happily and holds on to the conducting rod now - but not at the beginning. After FCT, this child is a completely different child. Two years ago I was going to put him into residential, because I couldn't cope any longer on my own. But not now. Since FCT he has become so easy, he is so much fun to be with. FCT is a lot more controlled - unlike DAN where they have no control over what is happening. My son is a completely new person, and everyone has noticed. And his life has completely opened up socially at school."

II. Lyme disease, Babesiosis, Bartonellosis, Ehrlichiosis and Morgellon's disease.

- Their key clinical aspects
- Essentials of FCT's understanding of factors which have led to the skyrocketing epidemics and sustainment of these diseases and catastrophic therapy failures of all medical, conventional and alternative approaches. Brief overview of major mistakes of these approaches. Among them – "Rife machine" and Lyme. Can chronic diseases be electrocuted? Discerning essential concepts – the true information – under flashy facts which often mislead. Strategy, brief presentation and testing of difficult and cured patients with Multiple Sclerosis, Lou Gehrig's disease and other serious pathologies among these.

III. Synthesis of some of the essential FCT concepts, including new important information.

Among subjects covered, with some of these upon our practitioners' requests:

- Are there boundaries to what FCT can do?

- How many natural supplements should we consider offering, refraining from or stopping?
- Presentation of another (see previous FCT media) cancer patient, who avoided oncological treatment, yet produced documented 3-fold drop in cancer marker on FCT.
- The art and science of true learning: Discerning fundamental clinical and reliable concepts behind jumping and confusing superficial medical facts. And how medical science misleads itself and those who follow it, based on "scientific and scientifically proven facts".

Few clinical examples: Dark-haired horse Roeskva and red cat Timmy against successful and unsuccessful outcomes of their human counterparts afflicted with the same diseases.

- Scientific confirmation of FCT's tenet of EMF-metals-brain deadly interaction.
- Lest we assume that I am picking only some 'happy' patient cases for presentation, I will also present a case of a young man with some dozen year ordeal of crippling and relentless depression that had never responded to any and numerous treatments. He was filmed in the Basic DVD course in 2004. He was treated with more than a dozen antidepressants and by alternative practitioners/clinics considered to be the best in Europe and the U.S. and treated for Lyme, mercury and many other alleged culprits and all with zero response. At the time of this writing, he is back to being under my care (which he abandoned a few years ago in search for a speedy solution) and is still ill. However, the case is evolving in an interesting and very edifying way. Whether he is still in crisis by the time of this October event or has made progress, I will offer analysis of his course and details of his treatment.
- Display of email correspondence between Professor of materials science (physics) William A. Tiller of Stanford University and Dr. Yurkovsky, concerning the subject of great clinical importance that concerns our patients and our own health, as well as Professor Tiller's confirmation of some salient FCT findings that, perhaps, you'd rather not see.
- Announcement of opening an in-house autism treatment center in a pristine setting by FCT practitioner Stuart Wright, DDS of Great Britain, who produced some very impressive cures from autism using FCT.

Question and answers.

Feel free to discuss your difficult patients or, with advanced notice, bring him/her live here.

- Considering rising airfares and other natural disasters of this era, we have kept the attendance fee for this three-day presentation at the same amount of $395 that for the two-day event in October of '09 at the same venue.
